The campus team performs audits of campus units and processes in the areas of academia, research, compliance, safety and security, and fiscal responsibility on U-M's three campuses. The complexity and decentralization of process management often requires an audit include a review of more than one of these areas. The campus team also provides advisory services and other consulting services that are intended to add value and improve governance, risk management, and control processes.

Audit objectives are risk based with consideration given to institutional strategic risks.

This chart shows the number of audits in each area for the past five years.
